KORY D. GEORGE

Attorney

Kory George is a member of the Firm's Management Committee and is co-chair of the Firm's Construction Law, Commercial Litigation, and Dispute Resolution practice groups. He has practiced law with Woods Aitken since 2003, with an emphasis in construction law, construction litigation, and commercial litigation. His experience includes advising and representing construction industry participants and commercial entities in all aspects of claim and dispute resolution proceedings, including mediation, arbitration, dispute review boards, and litigation at the state and federal court levels. Kory has experience representing clients on a multitude of projects both regionally and nationally. In addition, he also has extensive experience in contract drafting, contract negotiations, and the legal aspects of project management.

Kory has presented nationally at the ABA Construction Industry Forum, Construction Super Conference, and Concentrated Course in Construction Contracts. He has made numerous national, regional, and local presentations for various construction industry associations, such as the AGC, ABC, ASA, CFMA, COSSA, DBIA, AIA, NECA, IEC and various other trade and professional organizations. He has authored several articles published in periodicals such as The Construction Lawyer and The Journal of American College of Construction Lawyers. Kory was lead editor on a number of contract drafting working groups for ConsensusDocs. He is an active member in the ABA Forum on Construction Law and several other regional and local industry trade organizations. Kory is a Charter Fellow of the Construction Lawyers Society of America and is recognized by Chambers USA and Best Lawyers in America© in the areas of Construction and Construction Law. Kory is also an adjunct professor of Contract Law at the University of Denver Sturm College of Law.
